

cell trafficking (endocytosis and exocytosis). One of the major challenges of this project consists in modeling the spatial and temporal coordination between the molecular players involved in cell division and previously observed through quantitative image analysis.

Scientific and technical skills required by the candidate (2 lines)

Applied mathematics (numerical simulations), programming, statistics. Interest in physics and biology would be appreciated.